Hunter's Mages Heuristic Evaluation

By Michelle Huang

1. Cosmetic (Aesthetic): The text following "Welcome to Course 6!" should not be right next to the larger and bolded header text. Consider moving it below so that it aligns with the button too. The current alignment has awkward whitespace on the bottom.

    Welcome to Course 6! Here at MIT, Electrical Engineering and Computer Science have a rich history and many members of the Institute resonate with the department.

2. Minor (Learnability): The alignment of the "How can I schedule Course 6 Tour?" is off. It connects with the previous explanation of "What is a Course 6 Tour?".

    What is Course 6?

    At MIT everything is a number! Course 6 (six) refers to the Department of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science.

    What is a Course 6 Tour?   How can I schedule Course 6 Tour?

    A Course 6 Tour is a publicly available tour of the EECS department at MIT for prospective undergraduate and graduate students You can schedule a Course 6 Tour here.

5. Minor (Efficiency): It's repetitive to put both a "Schedule a Tour" button and a hyperlink.

6. Minor (Learnability): The font for the month should not be the same size as the font for the date/times. It should be bigger to show hierarchy.

7. Cosmetic (Aesthetic): There seems to be no alignment for the Back button. It could either be lined up with text in bold or be placed next to the Submit button. Currently it's just floating.

8. Minor (Learnability): The buttons are the same color and this time the confirmation appears on the left rather than the right. It's inconsistent with the rest of the website where going back or cancelling appears on the left.

If you have any questions please check out our website Course 6 Tours or for more specific questions email Anne Hunter at anneh@mit.edu.

Yes I can come!   No I cannot come :(

Thank you for RSVPing!

9. Cosmetic (Aesthetic): Similar to #7, the button on the left has an awkward alignment. Consider moving it all the way to the left.

Tours begin in building 38, room 476

12. Aesthetic: Perhaps choose a different color to indicate that one of the tabs is selected? The darker blue is not very noticeable.
13. Good: The large numbers draw attention to the fun facts you're emphasizing. Nice choice of colors too!

14. Minor (Learnability): You should probably give directions to how to get there instead of just providing the building and room number.
